Thursday, July 11. 1706.

From the Paris Gazette, dated July 3.

From the Camp before Turin, June 23.

SOME Days ago the Duke de la Feuillade putting himself at the Head of the Troops that had pass'd the Po, possess'd himself of Quiers, and of several Posts on the Hills about the Fort of the Capuchins. The 19th he took Possession of Moncallier, which the Enemy abandon'd at his Approach. Their Foot retir'd into Turin, the Fort of the Capuchins, and the Intrenchments about it. The Duke of Savoy is retir'd towards Carmagnole with 3000 Horse, having left in Turin but 500 Horse, some Hussars, and his Foot which are in a very bad Condition and begin to desert. The Duke de la Feuillade is march'd with 11 Battalions and 64 Squadrons, in pursuit of the Duke of Savoy.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 13.

Turin, June 24. M. de Schulenburg is in our Citadel, where he commands under M. de la Roche. General Count Thau commands in chief in the City, having under him M. de Carail and M. de Castellamont. Of the first burning Bullets that the Enemy fir'd, 2 fell in the Palace before the Court left it. They have at present 90 Pieces in Battery, which make a continual Fire. We answer them with equal Vigour, and the Stones we cast out of our Mortars do them great Damage. Not a Day pass's but our Grenadiers make Sallies to retard their Works. 2 of those Sallies particularly cost the Besiegers a great Number of Men, besides 2 Ingenieurs and some Officers. We lost some Soldiers on our Side too. We having about 10000 Foot in the Place, they are not fatigued with hard Duty. Our Men are lodg'd in the Burghers Houses, and want nothing. Wine is at but 6 Sols a Quart. The Burghers Guard the Gates. 2000 of our Soldiers mount the Guard daily at the Pallisades, and every Soldier fires at least 50 Shot. There is an uncommon Hatred and Rage between our Men and the Besiegers.

From the Paris Gazette, dated July 10.

From the Camp before Turin, June 30. The 24th past in the Morning the Batteries of Cannon began to fire with such Effect, that tho' the Besieged made a very great Fire, our Artillery silenced theirs before Night. The 25th in the Morning the Duke de la Feuillade came and visited the Trenches and the Batteries, and was very well satisfied with them; after which he return'd to his Camp at Bra, within half a League of Quieras. The same Day Miners were set to work to discover the Enemy's Mines. The 26th the Batteries having been serv'd with extraordinary Diligence, dismounted above 50 of the Enemy's Cannon: The marine Gunners and those belonging to the Land Train, both French and Spaniards, vying with each other. The Night between the 25th and 26th a Battery of 12 Guns was finish'd, and made ready to fire. Since that time the Sap has been advanc'd within 2 Fathom of the Pallisades of the Covert-Way of the outermost Ditch of the Citadel. The Miners have already discover'd several Mines, among others one in which were 122 Barrels of Powder, which they have taken out. They are working in search of more. The Besieged are extremely incommoded in their Works by the Bombs and Stones, and even in the City, whither the Bullets, Bombs, and burning Bullets fly over the Citadel, so that hardly a Shot is lost. The City has been set on Fire in several Places, particularly in the new Town, where a Fire that began Yesterday continues still. A Bomb has also blown up one of the Magazines of Powder of the Besieged. Their Soldiers desert daily, the 28th 57 came over to us and 25 to Day. They report there is a great Consternation among the People, and that the 24th a Bomb falling into the Church of St. John, kill'd or wounded above 200 Persons. The Count d'Estain has taken the Town of Asti, and is attacking the Citadel, the Garrison of which is believ'd to be very weak. The Duke of Savoy has thrown 2 Battalions into Quiers, and 3 Regiments of dismounted Dragoons into Coni. Letters of the 28th from the Duke de la Feuillade's Camp, advise, that since he became Master of Moncallier he had follow'd the Duke of Savoy by Carmagnole, Sommariva del Bosco, and Bra near Quieras, whence he went to Fossan hearing that Prince had pass'd the Stura there with 3500 Horse and 200 Foot: He caus'd 4 Squadrons of Carabineers, having each a Foot Soldier behind him, to pass through that River because the Bridge was not finish'd, and afterwards march'd over with the rest of the Troops without being oppos'd by the Enemy, which were posted on the rising Grounds on the other side of the Stura. He encamp'd at St. Alban, and continued there the 28th, the Baggage being come up but that Day. The 29th he was to follow the Duke of Savoy, who was retir'd into the Country of Mondovi. They add, that the Dutchess of Savoy was gone to Genoa, with the 2 Princes, but that the Dutchess Dowager is still in the Mountains in a Castle belonging to the Count of Mazin.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 16.

Milan, July 3. The Advices of the 30th past from the Camp before Turin, are, that the Sieg is continued with a very terrible Fire on both sides, and that several Batteries have been dismounted both by one and t'other. The most considerable Families, are gone out of the City, together with most of the Women. General Thau makes a very vigorous Defence, and harrasses the Besiegers very much by his Sallies. In one that he caus'd to be made the 27th at Night, a great deal of the Besiegers Works were levell'd, and several Cannon nail'd; 8 French Officers and 100 Soldiers were kill'd, and 50 taken Prisoners. These Letters from the Camp add, that the City is much damag'd by the burning Bullets and Bombs; but that notwithstanding, they do not reckon they can make themselves Masters of the Place till the 15th of August.

Paris, July 11. The 25th of last Month Cardinal Gualterio the Pope's Nuncio, the Duke of Alva Ambassador of Spain, the Ambassador of Venice, the Ambassador of Malta, and the other foreign Ministers, went to the Palace Royal, to wish the Duke of Orleans a good Journey to Italy. They were conducted by M. Aubert, Introductor of Ambassadors to his Royal Highness. The 1st. of this Month his Royal Highness set out Post for Italy. Advice being come that the Troops of Hesse, which were to have join'd the Army of the Prince of Baden, are march'd for Italy, 'tis believ'd our Court will find it necessary to reinforce the Army in Lombardy by some Detachments from that in Piemont. In the mean Time the Siege of Turin is push'd on with all possible Diligence, tho' it advances advances but slowly, for which this Reason is given, that 'tis to spare the Troops: The Trenches had been open'd 30 Days when the last Letters came away the 4th Instant, and not one Outwork is yet taken. Those Letters say the excessive Heats have bred Distempers in our Army, and a very considerable Number of Sick and Wounded are already sent to the Hospitals at Casal. The Marshal de Vitorroy is expected at Court, whence they write, that the Marquis d'Aligre is to be exchanged for the Earl of Albemarle, who was taken Prisoner and let go on his Parole. The Duke of Noailles remains in Roussillon, with 15 weak Battalions and 3 Regiments of Dragoons, to oppose the Incursions of the Catalonians; so that the Troops that are march'd to Navarre are no great Number; and 'tis not at all probable that after they have join'd those the Duke of Berwick commands, they can make up an Army sufficient to oppose the Forces of the Enemy, who have the People on their Side.

From the Paris Letter, dated July 12.
Paris, July 12. Letters of the 4th Instant from the Camp before Turin, inform us, that the Duke de la Feuillade having left his Horse to observe the Duke of Savoy, is return'd to the Siege of Turin with his Foot, to relieve those that have hitherto had the Fatigue of that Service, to meet the Duke of Orleans who was expected at the Camp the 7th, and to distribute Bounty Money among the Troops. These Letters tell us likewise, that the Duke of Vendome expects the Duke of Orleans the 11th or 12th; and proposes to leave the Army very speedily after his Arrival, and be at Court by the 22d or 23d.

Hague, July 16. We are in Expectation to hear what Person the Chapter of Munster will elect for their Bishop. M. Itersum is there with a Secret Commission from this State. 'Tis rumour'd the States would be content that Election should fall on the Bishop of Paderborn, or on M. van Galen one of the Canons; which last has the Character of being a Person of great Merit, and of a quite different Temper from that of the turbulent Bishop Bernard van Galen. The Chapter of Munster have a Minister here, who has in some sort renew'd the Treaty for the Troops of that Bishoprick which the States have in their Pay: This was done by a Letter from the Chapter which he deliver'd not long since to the States; in which Letter the Chapter having first notified the Death of their late Bishop, say they will continue the Treaty for the Troops on the same Foot as formerly till they have chosen his Successor. Their High Mightinesses in their Letter of Condolance, have express'd themselves to the same purpose, viz. that the Treaty shall continue during the Vacancy of the See. The Queen of England has writ a Letter of Condolance to the Landgrave of Hesse Cassel, on the Death of the Prince his Son who was kill'd in the Battle of Ramilly. The Earl of Albemarle has been summon'd to render himself a Prisoner in one of the Enemy's Towns. The Case, (as we are inform'd) is this; General Heukelom having a Pass from the Enemy for himself and a Friend, the Earl of Albemarle went with him to the Army, thinking that Pass sufficient without his being expressly nam'd in it. Being taken by a Party of the Enemy, his Lordship was oblig'd by the commanding Officer to sign a Note, in which he promis'd to render himself Prisoner in Case the Enemy's Generals should judge he was a fair Prize. One of those Generals retain'd him his Word, acquainting him that he was free, and that he had even caus'd the Party-Leader to be put under Arrest, for not respecting the Pass, and for not treating his Lordship with more Civility. Notwithstanding this, the Enemy have claim'd him, and summon'd him to render himself Prisoner in one of their Towns, saying the Council of War has adjudg'd that he ought so to do. His Lordship has return'd an Answer, in which among other things, he urges that having once been declar'd free, and his Note return'd, the matter is fairly at an End. The States having given the Command of a Swiss Regiment, vacant by the Death of Colonel Sacconay, to M. Metracl; preferable to M. Courfel who as the older Officer look'd upon it to be his Right; M. Courfel challeng'd him to fight on Horseback: They rode out together, and drawing their Pistols M. Courfel fir'd first and wounded his Antagonist slightly near the Ear; then M. Metracl fir'd and gave M. Courfel a Mortal Wound, of which he died an Hour after.

Yarmouth, July 8. This Morning sail'd out of these Roads the Russia and East Country Fleet, with 5 Men of War that were here, to join Sir Edward Whitaker and the rest of his Squadron, who rode without the Sands; but so soon as they got out the Wind chapt about, and they were forc'd all to an Anchor without the Sands.
